Banner hosts executive briefing with Tim Yeo MP

Banner is hosting an executive briefing at the House of Commons, focused on sustainable procurement. Tim Yeo MP, Chairman of the Cross-Party Environmental Audit Committee, will be presenting his vision for sustainable procurement at the event.

Senior procurement directors and executives will be attending the briefing, to be held in Portcullis House on Wednesday 11th February 2009.

Tim Yeo says: 'This briefing will explore the business issues around sustainability, the environment and climate change. Designing and implementing the right procurement policies is absolutely vital both for the success of individual companies and also for the environment.'

David Taylor, Director of Sales, Corporate Accounts for Banner, says: 'Sustainable procurement is no longer optional. Our customers expect it of us, and their customers expect it of them. This briefing provides a unique opportunity for us to discuss best practice with key decision makers from a range of different businesses.'

Banner offers a range of added value business services, with a strong focus on the environment. Its portfolio encompasses secure waste collection, environmental audits and a range of recycling services. The company also supplies furniture, technology and office products, including an environmentally preferred Globe & Tick™ range.
